GREETING

IN issuing this, my twelfth catalog of Dahlias, I take much pleasure in sending you a catalog that contains the very best varieties in cultivation of American and European introduction. These varieties have been tested the past season and given the best of satisfaction, both for exhibition and the garden, as you will see under description. I have endeavored to make my prices somewhat lower than last year with many of the varieties listed, and I assure you healthy bulbs, guaranteed to grow and true to name. (See Page 4.)

I have followed the same method as in previous years, giving you a pocket size, alphabetical and indexed catalog which has met with approval by my friends and customers. Owing to the enthusiasm shown at the fairs last Fall, the demand for dahlias will be greater than ever.

I would suggest sending in your orders as early as possible, as late orders are very disappointing owing to stock being exhausted. The dahlias starred (*) will be sent out in plants only. All other varieties in bulbs or pot roots. I am told by my customers, last year's method of packing bulbs for shipment reached them in fine condition, and I will continue the same method this season.

If this catalog is of no interest to you I would appreciate the kindness if you would hand it to some friend or I would be pleased to mail any friends a copy upon request.

Thanking you again for the business given me in the past, and wishing you a prosperous season in 1916, I am

Yours truly,

GEORGE H. WALKER.

As I wish to revise my mailing list

READ CAREFULLY

Orders: Must be accompanied by cash, money order or registered letter, otherwise they will be sent C. O. D.

Prices: are quoted to include packing and safe delivery to any Express or Postoffice in the U. S. and are quoted for bulbs or pot roots except varieties starred (*) these will be sent only in plants this season.

Warranty: While I exert the greatest care in sending out my stock true to name, healthy sound bulbs, I will in no way be responsible for the crop other than to replace such stock as may prove untrue or defective, or its value in other varieties listed in this catalog.

Errors: Do sometimes occur in the rush of business. If such occurs on my part, I desire to be promptly advised so I may adjust at once.

Clubs: If members of clubs wish to join their orders together, amounting to $10.00 or more, I will give a special discount; such orders must be sent to one member only. Any information regarding dahlias will be cheerfully given.

Invitation is extended to all to visit my dahlia gardens any time during the flowering season. Direction to my place is as follows: Coming by Taunton or Fall River electrics get off at Berkley Road. If coming by steam train (Segregansett Station) follow Centre St. (West) to Middle St. which leads to greenhouses and dahlia gardens.

DAHLIA CULTIVATION

Location—The dahlia requires first a sunny, airy location, and yet sheltered from the heavy summer winds. If dahlias are planted in the shade the result will be that they will grow to a great height and produce but very few flowers of a weak nature.

Soil—Dahlias will grow in any or all kinds of soil, if properly fertilized, with very good results. Most failures are due to neglect in having the soil thoroughly worked before planting by spading deep and making as light as possible.

Fertilizing—Give your garden a good coat of stable or cow dressing and spade well into the soil in the fall where you intend to plant them in the spring. Then when planting time comes you can use any good commercial fertilizer, about a handful to the hill, well covered over before setting the bulb.

Time to Plant—Dahlias may be planted with good results from May 1st to July 1st. In our New England climate May 15 to first of June is perhaps as well as any time.

Depth to Plant—Place the tubers diagonally about three inches below the soil. If the ground is cold and very moist, it is far better to start them in shallow boxes, covering them with moss or earth; keep moderately wet and place them in a warm place or hotbed and they will start quickly. After they are up, say two inches, transplant them to your field two feet apart, and the rows should not be nearer than three feet.

Feeding—After the plants are 8 to 12 inches high give them a good mulching of rotten cow dressing; some ground bone worked around the hill will be all right to use. As soon as the bulbs appear, spade in or rake off the dressing and water them with liquid made from sheep dressing or cow dressing. This ought to produce some fine blooms with good stems.

Hoeing and Cultivating—From the time the plants are out of the ground until they begin to bud and bloom the ground should be well hoed and kept free from weeds.

Watering—This is the most important and yet difficult question to solve. There is no rule as to how and when to water, only one's judgment. Watering too much is as bad as not enough. But bear in mind if artificial watering is done it must be kept up from rain to rain, and when watering be sure to water enough to reach the roots. The best time to water is at sunset.

Insects and Worms—One of our first pests is the cut worm which comes in time to cut the tender shoots. There is a remedy on the market in powder form called Vaporite, which it is claimed will destroy them.

Next comes the borer which is noticed by the wilting of the plants. The best way to kill him is to apply a weak solution of Paris green injected into the stalk at the top where the stem is hollow.

We have the white and green aphid which can be kept in check by any of the nicotine solutions, sprayed over the plants.

The cinch bug, our worst enemy, can be kept in check by the use of Pyrol sprayed once or twice a week.

Lifting and Storing—After frost has taken and blackened the plants, cut them down, allowing a week or more before you lift and store them. Select a pleasant day for digging, between the hours of 9 and 3. Dry and shake off what dirt comes easily and pack them in a dry, cool cellar, which can be kept at 40 to 45 degrees.
